In the absence of our Fearless Leader, Kathleen, Michael Jimenez, former fearless leader called the meeting to order.

First order of business was pricing for the chicken barbecues this year, as the cost of chicken is rising exponentially. Suggestions for a reasonable, palatable price went from $12 to $15. Neil suggested pricing at $13 and returning change in $2 bills. April 16 is our first barbecue of the season, so we are going to have to decide soon.

Peggy reported that Supermarket Sweepstakes posters, large and small, and tickets were designed and printed by Mary GuySell, and Peggy is waiting for a slight break in the weather to get started. She will circulate a sign-in sheet among the Rotarians soon for ticket-selling at the ShurSave.

We discussed having our first in-person meeting of the year on Thursday, March 3, and Neil said he'd check with the Legion. Zoren and Shelly agreed to cook for our first face-to-face meeting since the pandemic started.

We have two nominations for Student of the Month and the committee plans to gather at the Legion at 6:15 on March 3, just before the meeting, to choose a recipient, and would hope to make a Student of the Month presentation on March 10.

Bill offered to help with the event, and a tentative date of July 8 was selected, dependent upon approval of the golf course. Angel notified the group that we have our first hole sponsor, Pine Tree Farm.

Thanks to Michael for chairing the meeting in Kathleen's absence.

Happy Dollars

Neil was happy for 50-degree weather, Angel for her dog making it through cancer surgery, Frank for a better Rotary magazine, Neil for Cornell Vet College's sensitivity and competence in putting down his beloved elderly dog, and Joan for her chiropractor's resolution of her terrible back pain.

We ended early with the Five-Way Test, and excitement about meeting next week in the flesh for the first time in many months.
